DUCKWORTH'S VINDICATION.

"No better evidence of the power of the country press can be given than to take the late case of Chief Glerk Duckworth. The city press was manimously against him and loudly demanded his impeachment. The country press on the other hand was conservative, and with that spirit of Americanism which guides the pen of Americanism which guides the pen of the country editor demanded that the man be given a lair and impartial trial before a verdict was rendered against

And each a vindication! There is not And ench a vindication: There is not in the state today a man who does not know that Duckworth is as guilty as he, adeed, has confessed himself to be indeed, has contested the there is not a man who does not know that he shamelessly equandered the public money in that picturesque and sche carnival which he engineered, and there is not a man who does not know that his utmost delense was that cry, "They asked me to do it," than which "They asked me to do it," than which there is nothing smaller or more contemptible. If to be guilty on his own confession, and, on top of that, to be branded by his own pitful defense—if this is vindication, why, then Dackworth is vindicated, and may the Lord have mercy on him and his vindicatore, for he nud thay need it. he and they need it.

he and they need it.

If the Owl's claim that the city press was unanimously against Dackworth, while the country press was "bonearvalive," were true, it would be a high ative," were true, it would be a high tribute to the city press and a sore re-flection on the newspapers of the inte-flection. It is not entirely true, although it is too nearly so to be flattering to the country press. There are times when conservation is disgraceful, and when the chief clerk of an assembly appoints 17 useless attaches and squanders $4200 of the people's money within five hours, in the criminal wrecklessness of specialist "practical politics," such a specalled "practical politics," such a time is upon us. Duckworth's guilt was ngh from the beginning; it is clear enough from the negration; it is still clearer now, and the newspaper that attempts to justify it puts itself on a plane with the legislators who also attempted to justify it, and more or worse than that need not be said.

worse than that need not be said.
And, speaking of these vindicating legislator, it is timely to marvel at the spectacle they presented in thus putting themselves on the plane with a man who had fouled his office in the mire of filthier politics. There were, according to the amended returns, 28 Republicane, 13 Democrats and 3 Pomblists of them 13 Democrate and 3 Populists of them and as cheerfully as if they had nothing at stake, they transferred such foulness as they could from the chief clerk's garents to their own; the deserved odin which was his they voluntarily shared with him. Rarely is seen a more re-markable spectacle than this, for these tain newspapers have said to the con ere not necessarily on the Ducl worth level until they placed themselves there. If they, or any of them, had asked that certain appointments might s made, they had done no more than ny of us might have done, feeling that here was one to regulate the number of there was one to regulate the number of attaches and appoint them as the needs of the legislature might dictate. No, by no action of theirs had they then placed themselves on the Duckworth level. But they voluntarily descended to it. By their vote of vindication they attempted to justify the squandering of public funds, that solemn opening serio-comedy with its hundred hungry and neclear mouths at the public udder, Duckblatant announcement that he would appoint a thousand attaches two would appoint a thousand attaches two years from now and his petty defense that he was asked to be the catspaw for others—all this, and more, they at-tempted to justify. Justification was impossible, but by their action they asmpossione, but by the action that aumed each his share of the clium that attached to the chief clerk; there is no aplotch of blackness on him which is ot also on them, for they have assumed this is the "vindication" of which the Oul talks so cheerfully | This the vote on which "country editors congratulating their respective rep is the vote on which resentatives!" This transference of my from one man to another, with the effect felicitations, and neithe unite in the felicitations, and neither does many another paper. It feels that the state has been again disgraced, firstly by the revelations of the Duckworth investigation and, secondly, by that vote which in attempting to vindicate only succeeded in establishing the fact that a majority of the assemblymen are unworthy of the frust that the paper. are unworthy of the trust that the peo-ple had placed in them.

Demogratic contemporaries are still wasting their valuable space in deploring the non-arrival of a tidal wave of Republican prosperity. It, within a year from the 4th of next month, times have not materially improved in this country under a Republican administration there will be some reason for the complaint regarding belated prosperity; at the present time, such complaint is the veriest political twaddle, as empty as the national treasury under Olevaland and as void of meaning as the average explanation of theosophy. While the KEPURLUAN joins with all honest citizens in condemning the extravagance of the upseput perialsture in the matter of the present legislature in the matte of employing unnecessary attaches, it loes not forget that past sessions, in cluding those of Damocratic majorities, have shown their succeptibility to cornpting infinences in a greater de-ree than has yet been manifested by the present legislature.

Speaking of the Onban question, did you notice that Grover bagged between 35 and 40 ducks last Saturday?

If the dispatches may be trusted, the Spaniards are selling Guban girls into worse than slavery. As our state legislators have resolved, if the United States congress concludes to interfers in this matter it will be all right, and if It does not conclude to interfers, it will be all right, anyway. Anything entits us; they are not our daughters who are being sold, you know.

A woman is lenturing on "Our Relation and Inty to the Twontieth Century." We do not know just what the says, and we are so husy attending to our relation and duty to the nineteenth century that we have little time to think about the matter, but if she means to say that it will then, as now, be a duty to pay subscriptions to the newspapers, we are right with her. And if that is not it, we give it up.

The apprevieors are anxious in case their work shall be effective, and to this end they wish to lay down their duties and give due warning to the opplie. If the duties of county health officer and are properly performed they will be of benefit to the people of the county, but if gone through only in aprilmenty manner the offices are worse than use-

While discussing the duties of these offices Supervisor-Rose brought up the question whether the board had a right to great the office of county health officer and food inespector. He suggested that the district attorney's office gested that the district attorney's office will be consulted in regard to the matter. Word was excordingly sent to the district attorney's office, and Doputy George W. Jones appeared before the board. He was not ready to give a decisive opinion at moment's notice, but atted that while the provisions of the law authorizing the Board of Supervisors to take such measures to preserve the health of the people of the county as circomstances may require might imply the right of the board to appoint health oblicer, there was no express authority given. Mr. Jones will look further into the question, and the board took the matter under advisement.

The organization will be backed by a powerful financial organization composed of prominent capitalists here and in the second organization committee is composed of men to wide experience in matters of this character and command untimized resources. The process of cleaning is one well known in the art of preparing raisins for market, but the seeding is accomplished by a new and novel device, which is being employed on a limited scale here and in the medical product of Spain has not found its way into this country for the past two years, this being attributable to the superior quality of the raisine produced in Oalifornia.

Raisins are seeded by a machine, the roll of which, by two or most impressions, release the seeds without disfiguring the fruit. The invention, which is the organization which here and abroad, is that of George C. Ladde, the first successful machine being constructed by contract by George Fetti. Jr. and John ID. "The Tivoli" to Make a Specialty of Them.

Louis Scholler of the "Tivoli" has made arrangements to handle, on a large scale, the wines of Freeno and Sonoma counties. The best Sonoma Counties. The best Sonoma Freeno ports and sherries, have been purchased by Mr. Scholler in such large quantities and on such terms that he will be able to retail these host of California where at 6 cents a glass. This brings the pure, healthful, native beverage down to the price of a glass of beer. No doubt a considerable increase in the consumption in Fresso of our Chifornia wines will result from Mr. Scholler's enterprise. In a vory short time, probably a week, the Tivoli will be able to supply the family trade with these wines at similarly low prices. Try a glass of the wine for 5 cents at the Tivoli.
